Forecast For East Midlands
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Saturday 11 Sep 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Brightening up to reveal sunny spells and a few showers.

Today:
Although rather cloudy at first, Saturday should be a drier and brighter day than of late overall, with some sunny spells and fewer, lighter showers. Feeling rather warm and humid once again in shelter, with this tempered by the breeze. Maximum temperature 24 deg C (75 deg F).

Tonight:
Isolated light showers fading away to leave a dry remainder of the night, with cloud reforming in places, otherwise allowing some local fog patches to develop in the light wind. Minimum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Sunday:
Probably brightest in the morning, with cloud increasing from both the north and southwest to perhaps culminate in a little late rain. Feeling a little less warm than of late. Maximum temperature 21 deg C (70 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Changeable through this period, with relatively high uncertainty. Perhaps fine in east Monday, but a risk of rain in the west. Likely staying unsettled hereafter, with further rain and showers.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.